Norway Churches

Methodist
One of the most enjoyable drama comedies that has been presented in the Methodist church was given in the vestry on the occasion of the annual church fair during the closing week of November. Those who witnessed the performance declared that "it was the best ever". A charming and cozy sitting room was the stage background, while a soft mellow light was the instrument that emanated from the footlights giving a great variety of effect. The occasion was a home in which the young people indulged in the use of slang. The parents by witty consent and extraordinary ability devised a plan whereby the little home might forever be free from the promiscuous use of the English language. The players were unanimously commended by the large crowd of people who witnessed the evening's entertainment and the minister, Rev. Mr. Lyon, declared that such a display of real genuine talent was certainly a criterion of what was to be expected in the future from the casts. These players are members of the Methodist Dramatic Club, an institution recently formed by the pastor. Nobody can ever forget Mrs. Louise Wiles in the role of "Grandma" and frivolity, who has an answer of repute for all concerned. Elmer L. Aldrich very efficiently performed as "father" while Miss Edna Clark cast aside her Latin conjugations and played as "mother", a keen and sagacious opposite to Mr. Aldrich. Francis Wiles and Miss Anna Yates are remembered as two "reformed" young people, being brother and sister together in the home, displaying very splendid dramatic ability. Robert Hosmer brought good applause as the "college friend", while Elizabeth Noyes served as maid and haughty servant attired in suitable uniform. It was a great night and Norway is soon to hear and see these players again.

Next Sunday evening, December 7, Rev. Mr. Lyon is to give his dramatic sermon on the "Fool". It is a great story and the pastor is giving it in a great way. This is the fifth in the series of these Sunday evening dramatic presentations. One evening last week the "Mexican Troubadours" gave a brilliant musical review in the Methodist vestry. It was a most enjoyable evening of instrumental music. Sleigh bells, steel saws, Psalteries, banjos, Chinese fiddles and silver sliding musical chimes was a part of the entertainment. Those who attended agreed that it was an aesthetic inspiration.

It is of interest to the friends of Methodism to learn that at a great gathering of Methodist preachers and their laymen from all over the Rockland district, and over which Bishop Wm. F. Anderson of the Boston area presided, unanimously elected Elmer L. Aldrich as a representative member of the Methodist Episcopal Church Men's Brotherhood. Since Rev. Mr. Lyon reminded his people that the Methodist Episcopal church is the largest christian denomination in the entire world it is peculiarly palpable that the choice of Mr. Aldrich by this official body is an invitation that is not unenviable.

The Rise of Tom Hadley

By C. F. Whitman

At Sam's suggestion it was decided that after breakfast they would go deer hunting. The idea was to go to the hills and see if they could find some deer tracks. It was a fair home with them, if it was possible to obtain them. He thought it best to go into the section bordering the upper pond, where deer tracks had been seen by Sam advised that they take some food with them, which they did. They took bread and butter, cheese, fruit and a few rods from the upper pond, where Victor and Jim would be left to fish from the shore. They took themselves, Tom and Charley, and went to the deer.

It was a great deal of a tramp to the vicinity of the head of the upper pond and the spring mentioned by Sam. Here the tracks were put under some brush. Victor and Jim, who had been with them, rods and tackle, were left to fish.

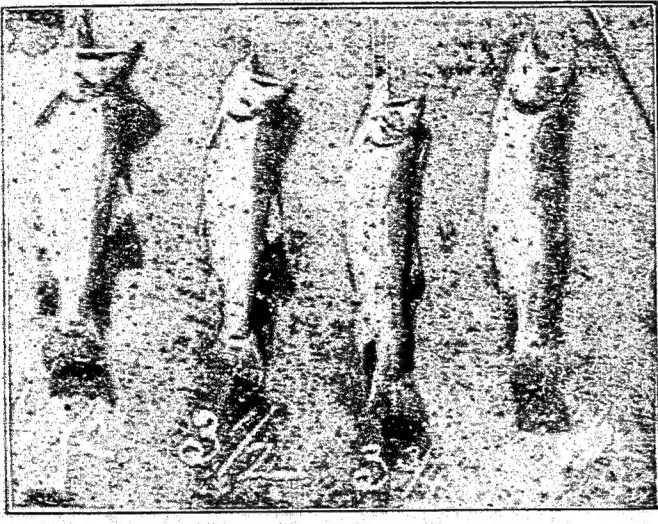

With a short cord tied to Rose's collar, Sam led the dog following the tracks. They had proceeded in this manner for some half hour, when they came in sight of a little dell, where a track was seen. The dog barked and Sam followed the deer away. Sam took Rose and followed the trail some distance and tied him to the limb of a tree. Retracing his steps, he followed the trail to a spot where the deer, without making a sound, disappeared. A gentle breeze blew from the north, which fortunately blew directly toward them, or they might otherwise have been discovered and the quarry taken. Two trees stood in the path that they were following, while in the act of passing them, Sam and Charley were startled by the sound of a gun. Sam was shot at the larger fawn, and the noise caused the animals to start and look up, when Sam gave the signal to stop and three reports followed. The fawn fell and dropped to the ground. The other fawn stuck to the trail and Sam reloading his rifle, shot a bullet through its head and it fell dead in its tracks. Then he went for Rose, which had escaped. He soon reappeared with the dog, who was started went with Sam for the other two deer. Sam, Charley and Jim carried out the buck and Tom and Victor the fawn. They were tired enough when they reached the spring, where their lunch was. With this eaten and after an hour's rest, preparations commenced to transport the carcasses of the game. There was about four hundred pounds of meat with the fawns to carry to camp, with only three men and two young boys to do it, which would be a task, for it would take a day or even for the time till the next day to the camp, with a part of them and return for the rest. Sam, however, was equal to the emergency. He had read how the Indians in their wanderings transported their belongings on poles stuck together—one end of these makeshifts being attached by strips of hide to their horses' necks, while the other ends trailed on the ground.

With the boys' assistance, Sam cut and bound together with sticks and lashed four sets of slender cedar poles—leaving the outside ones longest for handles. On the foliage of these poles, quite near to the ground, the carcasses of the deer, fawn, fish and lunch baskets were tied. It was arranged that Sam should take the buck—much the heavier load—Tom the doe, Charley the larger fawn, leaving the smaller one for Victor and Jim. Sam led the procession with Rose far in advance and occasionally barking at squirrels and birds. They found the effort they had to make, very laborious and fatiguing and frequently stopped to rest, but they finally reached camp in time to prepare supper before dark.

The campers retired early after their deer hunt and being much tired, slept so soundly that none of them, not even Sam, were astir till long after the usual time of rising. They found a northeast storm of sleet raging, which prevented any hunting or fishing. Most of the snow, however, melted as it fell. The storm rendered it necessary for them to stay indoors during the day. Before a blazing fire in the fireplace—in his favorite attitude—Sam told hunting and fishing exploits, while smoking with great relish some high priced cigars that Charley and Jim had bought for him. In this way he endeavored to entertain his guests. Charley told of the Boston adventure with the Jew, which was news to Sam. So the day was passed, though quite wearily, at least for the two youngsters.

The sleet cleared up during the night and by sun up the next morning, the snow which had fallen during the evening on the fawn's track. Rose had not been out of sight but a few minutes, when his bucking indicated that he had found the animal down or at bay, and they rushed on, with Sam in the lead, and fast as they could go. The former surprised and unaccounted for the carcass was taken back to the dell. The other deer were treated in the same manner.

It now became quite a problem to get the slaughtered animals out to the pond. Sam estimated that the buck would weigh about one hundred and fifty pounds, the doe about one hundred pounds, the larger fawn about seventy-five pounds and the smaller one fifty pounds. Sam could easily carry the doe on his back, with his wife and Tom and Charley the larger fawn, with their guns. In this way they went out to the pond where Victor and Jim, after catching some half a dozen good sized fish—and being tired of the sport—had found some large spruce trees and were gathering hunks of fine, deer gum. They, with Tom and Charley, had all disappeared. After breakfast, it was decided that Sam should go on a fox hunt—which he had all along contemplated—among the high hills, on the northern side of the lot, while Charley went to Sackville to obtain Bill Young with his horses to carry the game and belongings out of the woods the next day. The hunting and fishing had been wonderfully successful and they had an ample supply to take home for all their folks and friends, so Tom and Charley thought and they didn't care for any further stay at the camp. As Sam started off with Rose, he said, "Wal, boys, 'bout time, I guess, for us to be getting' out of their woods. Their next storm will be snow beyond a doubt. Our luck has been great—much more than I thought possible, whether I get any fox or not. Tell Bill to be on hand tomorrow with three horses, for if it will take that number to carry all our stuff out," and with Rose barking joyously, he was off without further ado. (To be continued)

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart—
—a masterpiece of Fisher styling

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar are artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in a graceful, unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements have also been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a smoother transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it. Drive it! Learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

RETURNED TO JAIL RATHER THAN STARVE

John P. Degress, 26, one of five prisoners who escaped at the county jail three months ago, surrendered himself Friday at Rumford. He appeared weary and seemed glad to return after his long journey. Degress is reported to have told Chief of Police Dennis at Rumford that he had been in Canada without a job and voluntarily surrendered rather than starve.

Three of the other prisoners who escaped by sawing bars from a rear window and scaling a high iron fence, have been recaptured.

SPIRITUAL GATHERINGS

The circles are a success and meetings are held every Wednesday evening at Mrs. Pierson's. The developing circle was omitted the night before Thanksgiving, but was resumed last Wednesday evening, with a good number remaining for instruction. The circle has been invited to Waterford some night and plans are being made to follow up the kind invitation. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Clement and O. S. Montphre are still in charge of the circles.

STOW CHALK MARK OBEDIENCE

Chas. O. Barrows, tax collector, Paris, tells of a house in Stow in which three families lived. There were three rooms on the ground floor. Each of the families had nine children. A chalk mark on the floor of the living room designated the ownership of each. At times the children were not allowed to cross the mark and thus early in life learned to obey their parents.

Enacted Christmas Legend
The Christian Endeavor Society enacted a Christmas pageant in the Congregational church, Sunday evening, entitled, "The Legend of the Star" by Douglas Horton. Particular attention was given to the setting and costumes and the story lesson of doing the small things near at hand was clearly brought out. Those having a part were Isabelle Fleming, Raymond Brown, Esther and Linda Cummings, John Colby and Theodore Chandler.

The musical part was given by Mrs. Ida Neal, organist; Miss Dorothy Deane, violinist; vocalists, Mrs. Esther Tower Anderson and Miss Kathryn Green, and the chorus, Janette Goldsmith, Barbara Colby, Charlotte Ovesell, Winona Oliver, Cheryl Eastman and Margaret Shaw. Members of the other denominations in town were invited guests.

Nelson Haskell, a student in Boston, spent Thanksgiving and several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Haskell. Ted Nutting was home from the University of Maine for Thanksgiving. Ice formed on the cove below Park street bridge, Thursday and Friday, and a handful of daring skaters took a chance. The rain Sunday upset that sport for a time.

Schools reopened Monday morning after a recess beginning Wednesday afternoon. James M. Millett returned from the St. Barnabas Hospital, Thursday, where he had been several weeks. Richard Millett brought him home and remained for the day. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kingsley and Velma also were at the home.

A large party was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Titus, Thanksgiving Day. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew, Mrs. Caroline Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Andrews and sons, Leonard and Stanley of South Woodstock, Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes of West Paris, Lionel Bieker, Miss Betty Sawyer of Auburn, Mrs. Sabrina Jackson of South Paris, Leroy Spiller of Norway, besides Mr. and Mrs. Titus and their children, Gertrude, Muriel, Elwood, Alva and Leroy, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Howard of Augusta and Roland Howard of Houlton were at Chas. H. Howard's for Thanksgiving.

Alton McPhetres and family of Portland were Thanksgiving guests of Rev. R. H. Colby and family. Eighteen members attending the Knights of Pythias meeting Friday evening accepted the invitation of Byron Tuttle to a social gathering at Hotel Andrews after the regular session. A four course turkey dinner was served by Mrs. Tuttle and her helpers which was responsible for appropriate remarks by Rev. R. H. Colby, who voiced the appreciation of the lodge. Some of the boys remained for several hands of sixty-three until a late hour.

Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Stewart observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage with a supper party Saturday evening. Bridge followed the supper. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pendexter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Telleron, Street W. Goodwin of Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Mason, Mr. L. L. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Butts, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Wheeler.

Philip Barrows secured a six point buck on a hunting trip in Albany. Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Hemen have rooms at the Eastland in Portland, where they will remain for the present. Later they expect to go south.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Morton spent the holiday with their daughter, Mrs. Arthur C. Soule and family at South Windham.

The Golden Key Class of the Congregational church was entertained at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Muriel Edmunds on Friday evening. Lydia Cummings and Mollie Davis were the hostesses. There were refreshments and games.

Miss Emma Tetley of Lenois, N. H., was home for the holiday and week end with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Tetley. On Thursday the family was with relatives in Freeport.

The Mason Manufacturing Co. started Monday after a shut down over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner went to Boston, Sunday and returned Tuesday. Mr. Skinner was on a business trip to represent A. W. Walker & Son, of which he is superintendent.

Miss Jeta Shaw was home from the Leland Powers School of Boston over Thanksgiving. She returned to school, Sunday.

Shaw's orchestra played for a crowded house at the Leland Mills Pavilion, Thanksgiving night. About eighty couples were reported at the dance there Saturday night. Stoves put in recently keep the room comfortable and a refreshment counter for warm food has made a hit.

Paris Grange will have an all day meeting, Saturday, Dec. 6. Those not solicited for the dinner will bring party.

There will be a postponed meeting of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Friday night, Dec. 5. The Sons are serving a supper at 6:00 o'clock on the same date. A South Paris item reads: Have you heard the Congo belles? If not be sure and hear them on Friday night, Dec. 12, in connection with the Congregational fair and supper. Many of the belles have acquired great fame in the days gone by, and their sweet melodies will ring out again on the eventful night of Dec. 12th.

NOVEMBER TEMPERATURE

John Wight, who keeps a daily record of temperatures the year round, submits a schedule of readings for November, taken at 6 a. m.

In spite of a remarkable season, the past month has won few blue ribbons for unusual mildness during the five-year period. With the mean of two degrees over 1929, it falls short of 1926 and '27, no jump greater than 20 degrees in twenty-four hours. Everything cooled on even keel from the 12th to the 27th with no abrupt changes. A fragment of the mid-west cold wave was wafted into Maine the last of the month for a taste of zero weather before the big show later.

LITTLEHALE REUNION

A family party of 42 was entertained at Odd Fellows' Hall, Thanksgiving Day by Mrs. H. A. Swan and Mrs. R. E. Chapman. This included the hosts' parents, the brothers and sisters, with their families.

A social hour followed the dinner with music and old time songs. Miss Beatrice Andrews was accompanist. As it was Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Andrews' forty-sixth anniversary, they were presented a cake decorated with a bride and groom, also a piece of silver.

The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Littlehale; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Littlehale, two daughters and son; Marcellus Littlehale; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Littlehale; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Littlehale and two sons; Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hendrickson and three daughters; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Andrews, two daughters and three sons; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Littlehale, two sons and one daughter; Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Littlehale; Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Andrews and daughter, Miss Beatrice Andrews; and the hosts and hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Swan and daughter, Helen, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Chapman and son Raymond.

The Black and White Minstrels appear in Association Hall this Thursday night with twenty entertainers. The company came from Bridgton and played here some two weeks ago. For various reasons the company was unable to appear for a show of this calibre, and a return engagement with many new features is the result. The entertainment was good and the stage setting and costumes were excellent. Something even better is promised this Thursday night.

Miss Helen Coburn spent the week end at her home in West Paris. A blaze in an electric plug pot at the Macburn Novelty Co. a little before six o'clock, Friday night caused a general alarm from Box 43. There was no one at the factory at the time, but an entrance was forced and the blazing pot carried out. The excitement was soon over and no damage done.

The Congregational Ladies' Circle held the annual Christmas sale and entertainment in the vestry, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 11-12. The sale opens the first afternoon and continues into the evening. Lunch from 5 to 7 o'clock followed by a play, "Two Christmas Boxes", presented by the young girls. On Friday, supper will be served at 6:30 to be followed by the "Congo Belles" in a pleasing program.

SOUTH PARIS-OXFORD PARK

Mrs. Mabel Wing and Mrs. Donald Cushman spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wing. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tyler took dinner with Mrs. Tyler's mother, Mrs. Olyde Swan.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker and grandson, James, went down to her granddaughter's, Mrs. Orin E. Ray's, Upper Gloucester, for Thanksgiving. It is the longest auto ride Mrs. Walker ever took. They enjoyed the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Abbott entertained at dinner Thursday, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Goodwin, and grandfather, George Mason, and enjoyed a baked goose dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cole enjoyed Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Twitchell.

A pleasant evening was enjoyed on Paris Hill at Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hammond's. Ice cream and refreshments were served. The evening was passed with music, Mrs. Hammond played the piano, Delmore Robinson played the piccolo, his brother, Charles, played the violin. Besides those present were Mrs. Addie Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thurston, Mr. Hammond, Mrs. Benj. Twitchell and family and Mrs. Bert Cole.

"The Store Around the Corner"

Early Gift Showing AT STONE'S

Not a bit too early to be seriously thinking about those Christmas gifts; in fact our store has already taken on the Holiday aspect; many of the gifts are already on display, and the wise are already viewing them and making their selections while the stocks are complete. We will gladly lay aside any gift you may select, and you may take it later at your convenience.

Our stock was never more complete—appropriate gifts for every member of the family and friends.

Truly our store is the ideal Gift Shop; here you may meet your friends, leave your bundles, and avail yourself of our unequalled soda fountain service.

We will give you more details about our Christmas stock in a later advertisement.
